

Legal Notice, Disclosure

General

The user of the information published on the website www.bog-gmbh.com accepts to be bound by, and acknowledges, the following provisions.

Disclaimer of liability and exclusion of warranty

The information provided by Baumgarten-Oberkappel Gasleitungsgesellschaft m.b.H. ("BOG") on this website is for the information of visitors and customers only. BOG has made every effort it can reasonably be expected to invest in ensuring the correctness and completeness of the information provided.

All information is given without warranty and does not contain any binding commitments. The information has been carefully checked, is updated at regular intervals and may be changed, removed, or amended without prior notice. BOG assumes no liability whatsoever for incorrect information or omissions on this website.

BOG assumes no liability for misprints, and for the correctness and completeness of information and entries and for the mode of presentation. The visitor is therefore solely responsible for any decisions made on the basis of the information provided on this website. In particular, BOG assumes no liability for direct or indirect damage, consequential damage or any other damage resulting for any reason in connection with the direct or indirect use of the information, including links, provided on this website.

BOG assumes no warranty for the contents of this website being available without interruptions or at all, likewise no warranty is assumed for the website or tools (e.g., server) being free of viruses or other dangerous elements. BOG expressly excludes any liability for damage of any type resulting from the provision of the website or tools.

Hyperlinks to other internet websites do not result in any responsibility or liability of BOG as regards the availability and contents of such websites.

Property rights

Unless indicated otherwise BOG has full and exclusive property rights (e.g., ownership, industrial property rights, copyrights) regarding the documents published on this website and the material provided. The publication of documents and material on the internet can not be construed as the granting of a license or of any other right. The documents made available are for private use and information only and must not be commercially reproduced, presented, distributed, or used in any other form unless prior written consent by BOG has been obtained. The use of marks (e.g., brands, logos), irrespective of whether a ® or ™ symbol is used, is expressly prohibited.

The above provisions shall also apply to software that can be directly or indirectly accessed or used on this website. If access to third party software is provided through links, the regulations of such third party shall apply and their rights must be safeguarded.

Data protection

Person-related user data are subject to the Data Protection Act 2000. BOG will make use of such information only to the extent required for personal consultation or for maintaining their customer master file.